

Did they work every day?

From Saturday afternoon until Monday morning no one did any work—not even cooking.

That was the Pilgrims' time to worship God. They prayed, sang psalms, and listened to William Brewster's long sermons.

This made Captain Jones and his crew angry. Captain Jones wanted to work every day. He wanted to help the Pilgrims get settled as fast as possible so he could sail the Mayflower back to England.

