

How did the Pilgrims and the other Indians get along?

The Pilgrims could “walk as safely in the woods as on the highways of England,” wrote Edward Winslow.

Squanto helped to arrange a meeting between Chief Massasoit and Governor Carver.

Chief Massasoit came to Plymouth with twenty Indian braves. He wore a chain of white bone beads around his neck. His face was covered with oil and painted a dark red.

All the Indians were painted—some black, some red, some yellow. Some of the Indians wore animal skins.

The Pilgrims and the Indians greeted one another. They ate and drank together.

Then Chief Massasoit and Governor Carver got to work on a peace treaty.