

Who took part in the holidays?

Everyone in Plymouth—about fifty Pilgrims and their Indian friends.

The Pilgrims were thankful for their Indian friends. Without the Indian corn, the Pilgrims would have starved. Without Squanto to teach them Indian ways, the Pilgrims could not have lasted the year.

The Governor of Plymouth asked Chief Massasoit to come. The Governor told the Indian chief to bring along a few friends.

Chief Massasoit brought more than a few friends. He showed up with ninety Indian braves!

